HEAD OF THE NATION

Calvin Coolidge.

President Coolidge's First Statement

On being informed of the death of President Harding, Mr. Coolidge at his father's home in Vermont, gave out the following brief statement:

"Reports have reached me, which I fear are correct, that President Harding has gone. The world has lost a great and good man. I mourn his loss. He was my chief and my friend.

"It will be my purpose to carry out the policies which he had begun, for the service of the American people and for the meeting of their responsibilities wherever they may arise.

"For this purpose I shall seek the cooperation of all those who have been associated with the president during his term of office. As for those who have given their efforts to assist him, I wish them to remain in office, that they may assist me.

"I have faith that God will direct the destinies of our nation."

Plymouth, Vt.—By the dim light of a flickering oil lamp, Calvin Coolidge took oath as president of the United States at 2:47 a. m. He started at once for Washington.

In the presence of only a few witnesses, the oath was administered by John C. Coolidge, the new president's father. The elder Coolidge is a notary public, which qualified him to officiate at this momentous event.

With no visible emotion save the paleness of countenance, Mr. Coolidge stood beside a little table, with his right hand upraised, as his aged father read the oath:

"I do solemly swear that I will faithfully execute the office of president of the United States and will, to the best of my ability, preserve, protect and defend the Constitution of the United States."

In the deep silence which followed, Mr. Coolidge said:

"I will, so help me God."

The decision to take the oath at once came after receipt of a telegram from Attorney General Daugherty in San Francisco urging such a course.

He is now 51 years of age and descends from a sturdy line of New England's farmers, Puritans who first settled at Watertown, Mass., in 1630.

He was born on a farm near Plymouth, Vt., on July 4, 1872, and is the son of John C. and Victoria Coolidge. He worked on the farm and also attended county schools and academies until he entered Amherst college in 1891. He graduated from Amherst in 1895 with honors, being one of the class orators. He was admitted to the bar in 1898 and opened law offices in Northampton.

In 1899 he entered politics and was elected to the Northampton city council and progressed steadily upward through the offices of city solicitor and county clerk. In 1907 he was a member of the General court of Massachusetts and was elected mayor of Northampton in 1910. In 1912 he was sent to the Massachusetts state senate and was chosen president of that body.

Beginning with the year 1916, Coolidge served as lieutenant governor of Massachusetts for three terms and in 1919 was elected governor of Massachusetts by a plurality of 17,000. He was re-elected by a plurality of 125,000 and on November 2, 1920 was elected vice president of the United States to serve with Harding.

Coolidge rose by grace of hard work steadily, but it was his stand as governor of Massachusetts during the dramatic occurances of the Boston police strike in 1919 that focused the eyes of the country on him and made him overnight a national figure and for a while talked of as a presidential possibility.

THE NATION GRIEVES FOR STRICKEN CHIEF

HARDING'S PASSING IS UNIVERSALLY MOURNED

President Harding died at 7:30 p. m., suddenly and without a sign of pain, while Mrs. Harding was reading to him from a magazine. She had paused and let the book to drop into her lap when the president said: "That sounds good; go on, read some more."

Those were his last words. The next moment a shudder passed over his form, and he was dead.

Mourning Throngs Line Route

On Board Funeral Special.—To see the outpouring of the people's sorrow over the loss of the nation's chief was unnerving to the calmest, and the throngs that lined the route over which the special train carried his body east has created a lasting impression on all members of the party.

By twos and threes, by tens and scores, by hundreds and thousands, people gathered along the route of the funeral train. They lined the highways in automobiles between cities, towns and hamlets, while in the towns it seemed as though everybody had turned out to stand with bowed head while the train passed.

San Francisco.—The soul of Warren G. Harding, late president of the United States, was recommended to its God, in the setting of the eighth floor suite in the Palace hotel, prepared for the reception of throngs who had planned to greet a healthy, cheery chief executive, but which, during the past sad week had been the place of meeting of friends of the dying president. Rev. James S. West, pastor of the First Baptist church of San Francisco, uttered the prayer consigning the man to his Maker.

Each word of the service was read as if it was a heartfelt tribute to the man who lay there on the satin cushions of the chestnut casket.

"I have fought a good fight, I have finished the course, I have kept the faith." The words rolled forth with the conviction of faith eternal.

Then, swinging into the stately cadences of the prayer, the Rev. Mr. West poured forth hope and encouragement to the bereaved widow, promising her that he whom she loved so well was not lost, but just "gone on."

The casket had been placed against the west wall of the room, the upper portion of the lid raised, revealing through the plate glass the calm features of the dead president. His arms were crossed upon his breast and on his face was the expression of ineffable peace that marks the face of him who dies in harmony with himself and with his God.

There was no stir as Mrs. Harding entered the room through the bed chamber in which Mr. Harding died so suddenly. Leaning on the arm of Secretary Christian, she came forward bravely, her chin up and her eyes briefly sweeping the assemblage.

Sentence after sentence, the brief service moved toward its conclusion. Mrs. Harding leaned more heavily upon Mr. Christian and Mrs. Christian stepped quickly forward and gently took her right arm. Lower sunk the proud head but no sobs shook the firm, bowed shoulders.

Then the services came to as sudden an end as it had begun. With upraised hand, the minister blessed the entire company and asked God's mercy upon the stricken woman.

San Francisco.—Through the hushed streets of the city to which he came to partake of its hospitality and remained to know of the depth of its love in his sickness, all that is mortal of Warran G. Harding, twenty-ninth president of the United States, was carried on the first step of the trip back to the nation's capital, there to lie in state and receive the homage of the world and the grief of the nation he loved.

Countless thousands thronged the streets, but so great was the hush that fell that the chimes of St. Patrick's seemed to fairly roar their requiems.

At 6:50 p. m. the procession reached the railway station.

The casket was lifted through a window into the private car Superb, the engine's bell slowly rang, a whistle shrilled, a conductor waved his hand, and President Harding's funeral train gathered speed for its journey across the continent.

As the train moved away from the station the casket stood out in relief as viewed through the open right side of the car against the draperies drawn on the opposite windows—the compartment flooded with light which made fairly to glisten the Stars and Stripes draped over the casket.

Five aeroplanes from Crissy field flew over the departing funeral train as it pulled out of the Southern Pacific station at Third and Townsend streets and soldiers dropped flowers along the route and upon the moving coach.

CALIFORNIA NEWS BRIEFS

Secretary of Agriculture Wallace and William Spry, commissioner of the general land office, discussed the problems of livestock raisers of western states, at a meeting in San Francisco, in which the necessity of adjusting the system under which stockmen lease forest reserve and public domain lands for ranges, or graze their stock under a permit. They spoke reassuringly of the problems and said full investigation would be made.

The worst fire in the history of Stockton started in the Philson hotel and resulted in the death of Homar Felts, principal of the Porterville schools and a property damage of practically a million dollars. Flames spread to the Commercial and Savings Bank, gutted the sixth and seventh floors and badly damaged floors eight and nine. Several guests of the hotel were overcome.

Representatives of the press may acquaint themselves with the highway, industrial and scenic problems and attractions of portions of Lassen, Modoc and Siskiyou counties through the medium of an excursion which is planned to start from Sacramento, August 14, returning August 21. Lewis Carrigan of Redding has charge of the plans.

A total of 354 fires have occurred in the national forests of the state since January 1, burning over 10,500 acres of government land and 12,500 acres of private land in and adjacent to the federal reserves. 50 per cent of the fires were caused by carelessness. Forty-four arrests were made and thirty-seven convictions secured.

A 300-acre tract of rich fruit land in the Plumas lake district, Yuba county, was purchased by the Great Northern railway. Division into 20-acre tracts will be made and when productive will be occupied by retired officials and executives of the road, it is claimed.

The annual convention of purchasing agents of northern California, when it convenes at Oakland, September 27, for a 4-day conference, will represent two billion dollars' worth of purchasing power.

Certificate Names Cause

The death certificate of President Harding, filed by Dr. Ray Lyman Wilbur, Stanford University physician, at the office of the San Francisco board of health, 1085 Mission street, gave the causes of the president's death as follows: Cerebral apoplexy, following an acute gastro-intestinal reflection, including cholecystites and broncho-pneumonia. Contributory cause, arterial sclerosis of several years' duration.

Love trysts of three couples who sought the seclusion of Fruit Ridge road, known as "lovers' lane," Sacramento, were shocked from the relm of ecstatic bliss to things material by a masked bandit, who collected several hundred dollars in money and jewelry and confiscated an automobile.

The I. W. W. of California will remain under the temporary restraining order issued at Sacramento last month until the adjourned hearing which is set for August 16. The district attorney will ask a converting order making the restraint permanent. A change of venue was denied the defendants and a motion for a change if judges within Sacramento county was asked. This subject will be opened at the next hearing.

One field of Onas wheat, cultivated by the agricultural college of the University of California, near Davis, produced at the rate of 110.4 bushels of thrashed grain per acre, setting a record for American wheat growing.

Placer county people turned out in great numbers to pay their last respects to William C. "Bill" Conroy, sheriff of that county in the days when the west was wild. During his three terms in office Conroy captured or was responsible for the capture of some of the most noted desperate characters in the criminal history of Placer county.

C. H. Wheeler has been suspended as chief field prohibition agent of the San Francisco district in the dispute over the disappearance of liquor seized at Monterey.

The wife of Major Julias Lindenstruth, U. S. A., retired, of San Jose shot and killed her 13-year-old son and herself. She left a note indicating mental derangement.

M. L. Bouton, constable at Manton, seeks $5,000 damages from L. H. Meyer, rancher, for injuries received last August when he was shot by Meyer in trouble over water rights.

Jack Frango, oldest member of the Machoopda tribe of the Indian village of Chico, is dead. It is claimed that he was 102 years old and was present at the signing of the treaties between the Indians and the government in 1852-53.

An 8-mile trail, to link up the Angeles reserve and furnish access to a mountainous region, will shortly be built from Coldbrook Camp to Mount Islip, it is reported from Pasadena. Later this will be extended to Crystal Lake.

STORES CLOSE TO HONOR MEMORY

The Merchants Association in regular session Wednesday, evening voted to close their stores between the hours of 1 and 3, this afternoon in patriotic love and respect for our deceased President Warren G. Harding.

Dr. Stallman reported that the Grammar School board would give their portion of ground necessary to widen the junction of Campbell avenue at Santa Clara-Los Gatos road. Several collisions have occured at this point and this move will give the motorists more room.

C. W. Shumway was elected to membership.

L. T. Lenox, Dr. W. I. Merrill, H. W. Morton and J. F. Wehmeyer were appointed to gather information in regard to the incorporation proposition.

Many of our townspeople are planning to attend the Harding Memory Service at St. James Park, San Jose this afternoon. In order that the post office force may attend this service, the office will be closed from 12:30 to 3 o'clock.

With the McKinley monument for a platform, Congressman A. M. Free, who has been "marching with the President" for the past months is the speaker of the day. Special music will be furnished by a male quartete directed by Dr. Chas. M. Richards.

BOY SUFFOCATED WHILE AT PLAY

An extremely sad tragedy occurred Wednesday afternoon when Frank, young son of Mr. and Mrs. Benj. Scimeca met an untimely death while playing in the Los Gatos creek bed.

Together with playmates the small lad about eight years of age had dug a tunnel into the bank of the creek, into which he crawled. Their efforts had loosened the soil so that a portion of of the bank caved in, covering the boy.

His playmate ran home to get a pick with which to extricate him, but did not get any one to help her, and when the boy was uncovered he had been smothered.

Mrs. Scimeca hurried the lad to the county hospital where he was pronounced dead. Coroner Amos Williams held an inquest on the case yesterday.

The dreadful shock and heart wrung woe of his parents can only be imagined as the news was told them as they were at work in one of the cannieries.

LIBRARY PREPARING FOR NEW HOME

In anticipation of its removal into new and more commodious space, books are in process of being catalogued. An assistant from the Co. Library in San Jose was out to help Miss Kennedy Thursday, and the work will be continued until a complete list is made. The Campbell branch has been promised more books from the county library whenever there was adequate space for housing them, which there will soon be. The Campbell library has never been properly listed so that the librarians could ascertain exactly what books there were in useable condition.

Patrons and supporters of the library are looking forward with great pleasure to the time, now not far distant, when the new building will be in use.

Bud Majors was quite badly scalded Saturday while cleaning up in one of the local canneries. He was about to empty a pail of scalding water when his foot slipped on the wet floor and the contents of the pail was thrown over one side of his face and neck. Prompt medical aid promises to prevent any scarring, or at least disfiguring scars, if any.

CAMPBELL PLANT ON FULL TIME SERVICE

NOTED FOR QUALITY GOODS

Campbell has a real live and active manufacturing plant with the distinction of never sleeping. It runs twenty-four hours per day, seven days in the week. This is the plant of the Santa Clara Gravel Co., owned and operated by Mr. E. J. Goodpastor, president, Mr. R. L. Robinson, vice-president and sales manager, and Mr. R. L. Duncan, secretary and accountant.

This company has made for itself an enviable reputation of delivering the goods, the cleanest washed sand, roofing gravel, pea gravel in three grades, concrete gravel in two grades and crushed rock. They turn out also any per cent or mixture of these various products to suit the buyer.

And as a bit of evidence as to the popularity of their products they are now loading out from 12 to 16 cars a day. The orders for sand are far in excess of the output.

The crew of three shifts operates the full twenty-four hours handling about 800 tons of rock and gravel in the day. There are now fourteen men on the job, nearly all living in Campbell.

In an actual engineering test less than one per cent of dirt was found in all the products and this clean material is used by San Francisco city and the state highway commission. The base and top dressing on Campbell avenue, was furnished by this company and is proving most dependable. The Duplex Block Construction Co. uses these products in their work.

The gravel pit is located just south of Campbell and has been in operation more or less for the past 15 years, when the Southern Pacific opened the pit for road bed construction. It covers about 20 acres of ground and the gravel bed is over 150 feet in depth so at the present rate of consumption the plant has at least a 10 years job ahead

The gravel is scraped to a dump, by a 4-yard LeClaire scoop, carried by a 2500 ft. loop cable. At the dump the load is carried on a 200 ft. conveyor belt 24 ins. wide to the wash hopper where under heavy pressure a stream of water is kept washing the rocks and gravel. From here the material is carried thru various sorting screens and rewashed that the least dirt may carried on. All rock too large for the desired sizes is carried by belt conveyor to the crusher where various sizes are again screened, all grades being held in hoppers.

By conveyors any hopper may be unloaded to either railroad cars or motor trucks. It requires from 10 to 15 minutes to load a gravel car on track.

The water is supplied by a powerful booster pump drawing from tanks holding 115000 gallons which in turn are kept filled by deep well pumps.

The present company has been making extensive alterations whereby it could supply the best of its line in large quantities and its dreams of high efficiency have come true.

The program committee of the Country Woman's Club is busily engaged in preparing plans for the year's club work, and the suggestions which they have given out sound very promising. One part of the program will provide a study of China, a country which is looming large in world's politics and growing yearly of more interest and prominence. The second general division will deal with literature, for which the club primarily stands, as supporter of the library and reading room.

Mr. and Mrs. Willis E. Johnson who have spent part of the summer here with Mrs. Christine and Miss Kittie Johnson, have returned to Brookings, S. D., where Mr. Johnson is president of the State Agricultural College.

GO FISHING

The people that feels sorry for themselves because they cannot see their way to take "prolonged vacation" will feel a lot better if they will let the bars down long enough now and then to get a little fresh air. There is something radically wrong about a business that does not allow the boss to go fishing for a day or so, if he yerns to do so. He may not care a little bit about the fish, but the motion of getting them is his medicine. A planned one day a week "with the car" would become a normal rest period to look forward to—a routine matter the contemplation of which would be in itself medicinal. Suppose you try it for the summer months.

Pulling together lightens the load.

Fruit trees may be improved by grafting, but it doesn't seem to work in the case of political timber.

Get busy—keep busy. That what business means.

the present condition of the farmer is not all that could be desired, but the reports of savings banks in the more strictly agricultural states will go to show that it is far better than it was two years ago.

As a light summer pastime we suggest lying on the floor counting holes in lace curtains.

ROADS THAT WILL LAST

The subject of scientific road construction is daily becoming a more important question for taxpayers consideration.

The load carrying capacity of any type or design of highway must, of necessity, be influenced by the support afforded the pavement well compacted soil will, of itself, support the heaviest traffic if its moisture content is properly controlled and if it is protected by a structure which prevents the displacement of surface particles. The protective structure termed "the pavement" will then need to be only of sufficient thickness to afford such protection, and, at the same time, itself withstand the various destructive agencies of traffic.

A comprehensive census recently compiled by the Standard Oil Company shows that to April the 1st, of this year, there had been laid or contracted for in the five western states of Washington, Oregon, California, Nevada and Arizona, 101,550,140 square feet of asphaltic concrete base and surface pavement—this area being the equivalent of 1070 miles of 18 foot roadway. Of this total, 86,247,613 square feet or 84.9 per cent, is 5 inches or under in thickness, demonstrating in no uncertain terms that the prevailing tendency is to construct this type to a total thickness of 5 inches or less. Pavements of this type were constructed 5 inches and under in thickness from fifteen to twenty years ago, and are giving satisfactory service under present traffic conditions.

STEERING BUSINESS SHIPS TO SUCCESS

Fred P. Mann is a drygoods merchant in Devil's Lake, North Dakota. He sells a half million dollars' worth of goods every year in a town of five thousand population. He has built his business from nothing. His capital has been intelligence. He stands an inspiration for any small merchant who seeks to build a paying business on a sound foundation.

There are thousands of merchants who flop along without any definite aim except an instinctive desire to accomplish. These are the merchandising derelicts. The ship that reaches port in time to win the cargo is one that is steered with a definite purpose and along a course thoroughly charted.

Mr Mann frankly says his success is one of two things—sensible buying and vigorous newspaper advertising. He spends more in newspaper advertising than any small merchant in the United States. The answer is he does more business than any small merchant in the United States.

Half the local merchants in small towns see in advertising nothing but typographical announcements. The money they waste in using direct by mail advertising only is astounding. There is not a skilled advertising man in the whole of the United States who uses a direct-by-mail advertising except as a supplement to the newspapers. Without the newspapers the rest is useless. If we fail to learn by the experience of others who have succeeded then we fall behind in the march of progress

John Wanamaker, Marshall Field and Fred P. Mann are not fools: Hitch your wagon to a star, not to a doubting Thomas:

MILLIONS OF BOOKS ISSUED TO SUPPORT BOLSHEVIST IDEAS

Figures received here summarizing the activities of the publishing business in Russia which is purely an enterprise of the Soviet state, indicate that a great effort is being made to convince the Russian people of the correctness of Bolshevist political, social and economic theories.

The Soviet publishing house issued from its presses in Moscow and put into circulation throughout Russia during the last 12 months no less than 14,500,000 volumes covering the fields of economics, politics, history and even fiction.

Aside from the obvious propaganda tendencies of the volumes on political and economic subjects, the Soviets historians have sought to show how the world has suffered because of its hostility to Bolshevik doctrines, and in many of the fiction volumes the endeavor has been to prove that opposition to Soviet doctrines has warped, limited or distorted individual lives.

UTILITIES MUST GET CAPITAL

In discussing the question of a fair rate of return on public utility properties, J. S. McCulloch, vice-president of the New York Telephone Company says.

"It is in the public interest that public utility properties should be fairly valued, the rate of return sufficient to enable them to attract capital which would otherwise seek other lines of investment. Telephone and electric companies must meet unprecedented demands, requiring investment of hundreds of millions of new capital annually.

"In the effort to supply farming sections great problems are faced to secure capital to furnish equipment and service to supply the public needs."

PLAYING SAFE

Banks and bond houses are specialists in financial matters.

If you are ill you go to a doctor; if you want a tooth pulled you go to dentist; if you want a suit of clothes made you go to a tailor; if you want a bath tub installed you go to a plumber; if you want farming done you go to a farmer.

By the same token if you want knowledge of financial matters, including investments, you should go to a specialist in these matters.

A farmer's business is farming and in that, by all the laws of average, he should be an expert but, having made his money his proper course is to conserve it and invest it. His bank or investment banking house will gladly advise him how to invest it in a safe manner.

Oliver B. Schooling, who died at his Yolo county ranch north of Capay, was a resident of the state for sixty-four years and participated in many history-making events of the early day, notably the Clearlake water and range trouble of 1870 and the Modoc Indian war.

The big structure of the First Methodist church at Pasadena is being razed and will be re-erected on a new location. Every bit of material taken down is carefully marked and indexed, so that the building can be rebuilt in exact type as originally.

THE PRESIDENT

OF the many things that are being said about the life and character of President Harding, one of the most appealing is that he was "just folks."

People of communities like ours understand "folks." The term implies something kind, considerate, strong, gentle and neighborly—all that goes with "fellow feeling."

Mr. Harding was, in truth, a small town man. His success as a small town man is what made him a possibility as the nation's President. There is a deal of inspiration for us in that.

Wednesday morning two autos were in collision at the corner of Campbell and Central avenue, without apparent serious damage to either. The Ford which was apparently in fault had a fender bent, which the driver straightened and the two machines went on their way.

W. C. T. U.

The W. C. T. U. held an enjoyable meeting with Mrs. C. H. Whitman, Wednesday, Aug. 1, when the birthday anniversaries of our members occured. Mrs. Byrnes had charge of the devotional exercises, during which Mrs. Theodore Cutting read a well prepared paper on the women of the Old Testament.

It was voted to send expressions of appreciation to the pastors of both churches for their sermons upon the topic, "Law Not War." Communications and reports of committees were quickly disposed of and the remainder of the time was given to a short program and a social hour.

Mrs. M. J. Wilson read an original birthday greeting to the honored ones, and Mrs. Ellen R. Smith read Whittier's beautiful poem "My Birthday." Flowers, greeting cards and a small gift was presented to each. Those honored were mesdames M. D. Morgan, Ethel Davis and Minnie Lewis. Twenty-four ladies passed a pleasant hour in conversation and partaking of the birthday cakes and punch.

The next meeting will be held with Mrs. Wilson, August 15.

SANTA CLARA CO. FAIR

ASSOCIATE SOUND AND COLOR

Mr. Horace B. English sends an account of the following interesting incident to Science Magazine. It seems to indicate the manner in which children, and many adults as well, come to associate sounds with colors.

Fulton (aged three years, eleven months, listening to the phonograph)—Daddy, I think soft music is yellow.

Fulton—Well, it is black.

Fulton—Blue music is loud, but not so loud as the black music.

Fulton (after thinking a moment)—Well, when you mark with yellow crayon on paper, you can't see it very well, but when you mark with black you can.

British Engineers Busy.

Contracts for engines and railroad stocks for foreign and Colonial customers have been booked by British firms in such volume as to keep their engineers and laborers hard at work for months to come. Beardmore and Company of Glasgow have obtained an order for the reconstruction of repairing workshops of Portuguese railroads and are making 27 locomotives and 3,350 pairs of wheels for Indian railroads. Beyer, Peacock and Company, Ltd., of Gorton, Manchester, have booked an order for 30 locomotives from the East Indian Railway company. Beardmore and Company also will make three engines for East Burmah, and the Vulcan company of Manchester is manufacturing 35 locomotives for India. Altogether British engineering firms have recently booked orders from abroad for close upon $10,000,000.

Bandits Hold up Orientals

Officers of the entire Santa Clara valley have been scouring the county for four daring holdup men who terrorized Japanese and Chinese in a series of bold daylight robberies Sunday. The holdup and robbery of three Japanese in an automobile near Simla, west of here, just at dusk Saturday is attributed to the same gang of thugs.

The first holdup by the gang Sunday occured on Hamilton avenue just out of Los Gatos, where the holdup men, after threatening K. Sado, Japanese grower, with revolvers, robbed him of $25 and a watch.

Sheriff W. Lyle, receiving a report of the hold-up near Los Gatos, from City Marshal Baird, who gave the number of the bandits car as 274,898, telephoned to Traffic Officer Orval Overturf at Mayfield to be on the look out for the closed car in which the men were traveling. While Overturf was talking with Lyle on the 'phone, the hold-up men held up the Sado grocery, two blocks away from the telephone at which the officer was standing. After securing $156 from Sado, the men swooped down on the Bayside cannery west of Mayfield and held up Lee Sing, Chinese employee, taking $10 and a watch from him.

Deputy Sheriff Floyd Hopping and Harry Martin investigated, scouring the northern and western sections of the valley in search of the hold-up men.

Two of the four bandits were arrested in San Francisco Monday afternoon, according to information given out by the office of Sheriff George W. Lyle.

Hans Hunsdorf, St. Paul, Victim of Tuberculosis, Still Working for Fellow-Sufferers.

Disabled himself, perhaps no man in the Mid-West is doing more active work among disabled veterans of the World war than Hans Hunsdorf, now in the Aberdeen hospital at St. Paul, Minn. Hunsdorf has personally interested himself in the cases of his "buddies" who are suffering from the effects of their service in the World war and is endearing himself to these men by his splendid efforts in their behalf.

Hunsdorf was born in Eidswold, Norway, in 1878. At thirty-nine he enlisted in the army at Fort McDowell, Cal., and went to France as a mechanic with the One Hundred and Eighty-sixth Aero squadron, where he made a splendid record. He received a certificate of disability in line of duty and is now totally and permanently disabled from the ravages of tuberculosis. This gave rise to a long period of hospitalization, during which time Hunsdorf has been in seven government institutions, beginning in France and ending at St. Paul, where he is now a patient.

Spurred on by conditions he saw in these hospitals among his companions, Hunsdorf set out by personal work to relieve the troubles of those about him. He has assisted hundreds in their claims for compensation and similar lines. He has attended every military funeral which has occurred in his locality, and has placed "the poppy of remembrance" on every coffin.

Recognizing the American Legion as one of the agencies for affording relief to World war veterans, Hunsdorf has put much effort into securing members for the organization. Since the opening of the 1923 campaign he has personally written the applications of 101, though this is probably the least of his service to the Legion. Without thought of the personal sacrifice involved, this man, of foreign birth, has given unstintedly for the country of his adoption, and now facing defeat because of the physical conditions brought on by his sacrifices, still devotes himself to the alleviation of suffering and anxiety among his former comrades-at-arms.

Willing.

The bargaining for the cow had been going on leisurely for an hour. Finally the prospective purchaser came flatly to the point.

"How much milk does she give?" he asked.

"I don't know rightly," answered the farmer who owned her. "But she's a durned good-natured critter, an' she'll give all she can."—American Legion Weekly.

LOOK FOR HOARD OF BANDIT

Psychic messages from St. Nicholas are said by an archeologist in charge of excavations in the Balkans to have led to the discovery of the subterranean stronghold of Ali Pasha, a famous bandit who terrorized the Balkans a century ago.

According to the London Express the skeletons of 25 men were found, believed to have been killed because they discovered the secrets of Ali Pasha's treasure house and its labyrinthine passages. The principal one is about 1,100 yards long, intersected by tunnels leading into darkness, or returning by devious routes to their main corridor.

Ali Pasha's father was murdered by neighboring chieftains, and his mother urged him to take revenge. His fierceness and indomitable courage brought terror to the Balkans. In avenging the death of his father he grew rich on the spoils of war.

Ali Pasha assisted the Turks in their war with Russia in 1787, and was laden with honors. He became the ruling power in Albania, and helped Napoleon, with the ambition of establishing his kingdom as a seapower. Being disappointed, he next fought against Napoleon, and negotiated peace with Great Britain in the name of the Ottoman government. On emerging from the grand vizier's tent he was treacherously murdered.

The exploring party hopes soon to reach the crypt where the treasures are believed to lie. These riches are said to embrace money, jewels, tapestries and a collection of golden Byzantium chalices, stolen from churches.

TREAT FOR THE YOUNGSTERS

"Man on Horseback" Proved That He Could Unbend—Truly a "Very Lovely Sunday."

The man on horseback has stood through many centuries as the type of the haughty, superior person. He rides while others plod. He looks down upon the rest of us. And riders in the park are very superior persons indeed. Yet one who easily bestrode a handsome chestnut horse was seen the other Sunday afternoon to stop beside the railing near the Sixty-sixth street gate, westward, where stood a woman with many children.

He reined in, borrowed an urchin and set it on the pommel of his saddle. Very gently he trotted off, very lightly he turned and very softly he cantered back, never getting beyond the brave but anxious mother's sight. Then he borrowed another urchin and did it again. And then another. And each time, as he handed the proud child back, he slipped something into its hand.

A man who walks in the park regularly says he has never in many years of walking there seen the like happen before. It was a very lovely Sunday.—New York Times.

Europe's Surplus Spinsters.

The German statistics office has made the announcement that there are on the continent of Europe 25,000,000 women, the majority of them young and marriageable, who must either embrace polygamy or go unmarried, as there are not sufficient men to furnish them with husbands.

In 1913 Europe had a recorded population of 460,000,000 people, and a surplus of 9,500,000 women. The presnt population is estimated at 475,000,000, with a surplus of 25,000,000 women. To each batch of a thousand men there are 1,111 women.

Russia has the largest number of women, 1,229 to 1,000 men; Germany stands second with 1,100, Austria third with 1,069. Holland is the most favored in this regard, for in that country the surplus has decreased from 1,020 to 1,010 women to 1,000 men.

An 11-year-old brother and a forbidden cigarette is blamed for the death of 4-month-old Donald Carroll who was burned to death when the residence at Home Gardens, near Los Angeles, was destroyed.

Construction by the harbor commission of grain terminals on Islais creek is meeting with opposition from the Martinez chamber of commerce, who would avoid competition for the warehouses at Port Costa.

Wages of $3.00 per ton with a bonus of $1.50 per ton to those who remain during the entire season, have been agreed upon by Napa county prune growers. Dry yard wages will be 40 cents per hour.

I. S. Hayward, Hayward's only negro settler, has been notified anonymously to "clear out by August 1." Small boys are thought to be responsible for the note, and Hayward says he won't go.

Mrs. Manuel Battencourt, who died in Oakland after a long illness, and her husband, who expired at her funeral at that place, were buried together in the family plot at Napa.

Thomas E. Flynn, 70, and veteran newspaper man of San Francisco, committed suicide at his club, after writing a note saying, "Far better to be dead than sick and weak."

Driving in a fog along the Glenwood highway to Santa Cruz, Harry Morey, sr., of Palo Alto was killed when his car left the road on a sharp curve at Rocky Fall.

Two army lieutenants, Roland Kelly and Roy Vradle of Los Angeles, came near meeting death in San Francisco bay when their plane, piloted by Vradle, fell.

Three well drillers, A. J. Munich, Louis Leitera and Alex Wilson, were killed at Stockton when a high power wire touched the machine which they were operating.

Does Fear Put a Tax on Your Pocket-Book?

Fear is a partner in the sale of many a quart of high-priced motor oil. The motorist pays for added protection that he does not get. The extra money usually goes into long-haul transportation and high merchandising costs.

Zerolene, produced on the Pacific Coast and often selling for half as much as other oils, reduces friction and wear to a greater extent than any other motor lubricant we have seen and tested or been able to produce. It is a better oil — even if it does cost less. Ask for it by name — Zerolene.
